The Stock Market.

By Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—Stocks opened this morning unusually active, and, while displaying some weakness in the early trading, it lifted suddenly and rapidly afterwards, and very large advances were made in many leading stocks.

The opening figures showed irregular changes from those of Wednesday afternoon, though the only important change was a drop of 2 1/2 per cent. in the Sugar Refineries, followed by fractional losses in all the list during the first few minutes. The general list, however, soon developed an unnatural strength, and was lifted rapidly. Burlington rose 3/4, Union Pacific 3/4, Rock Island 1/4, St. Paul and Northern Pacific 1/4 each, and others in fractional amounts.

The advance being so sudden, it came to an end equally as sudden, and the top prices were not maintained, Union Pacific going back 1 1/4 and Sugar Refineries about as much.

The market, which developed great activity during the rise, became quiet again, and at 11 o'clock was quiet and barely steady as to figures, but without displaying any undertone.

Stocks rallied again after all and moved upward, but while many reached still higher prices than during the first hour, the advances were in no case more than a fraction, and sales were less active.

At noon the market was comparatively quiet, though strong at about the best prices of the morning.

Stocks after 12 o'clock showed a marked falling off in the amount of business, and the strong tone disappeared, being replaced by considerable irregularity in the movements. St. Paul was depressed to 54, and almost everything showed some weakness in the early part of the afternoon, but the losses were generally recovered later, only to be followed by a further depression. Sugar, however, was well maintained, and rose to 57 1/4, but dropped away sharply to 56 1/4.

Towards 2 o'clock the whole list yielded, and most of the stocks were again brought down to the level of the opening, the only exceptions being Rock Island, Burlington and other especially strong stocks.

At 2:15 the market was quiet and heavy.

Stocks continued to settle downward for a time after 2:15, and in some the lowest prices of the day were reached. This tendency was checked later, and, while no material improvement occurred, the weakness disappeared and the market closed quiet and steady.

The Ives Murder Case.

MERCED (Cal.), Nov. 28.—Justice of the Peace Robertson called his Court to order this morning for the purpose of giving a hearing to August Olsen, the man arrested for the killing of John Ivet, a wealthy rancher on November 9th.

The defense asked that an order be made excluding all but the witnesses from the Court-room, which was granted, and the trial of the case began by about thirty-five witnesses being sworn.

The first two witnesses, J. W. Gibbons and Miss Vacaro, testified they knew August Olsen, and that they met the man on the road near Mugler's ranch on the Sunday evening of the murder.

Miss Vacaro was positive it was Olsen and described his appearance. When she passed him at Mugler's place there was only one man with him. Olsen was horseback, wearing a white slouch hat, overcoat and blue overalls. She noticed nothing tied to his saddle. She did not notice Olsen's companion.

Mrs. Harsley, wife of the Postmaster at Snelling, swore that Olsen came to the office after dark Sunday, November 9th, and asked for Ivet's mail, but she, not knowing him, made him wait until her husband came from the rear of the store.

Mr. Harsley swore that he waited on Olsen, but he had no mail. He said that Olsen wore a light slouch hat, cassimere pants and a long overcoat.

J. P. Jones, an employee of the late Ivet, was sworn and testified substantially as follows: I am a laboring man, and have resided at Ivet's for a long time. I was there Sunday, November 7th, the day previous to finding the body. I saw Olsen there that day at the lower house, where the men stopped. The men all played cards, drank wine and had a good time that day, Olsen included. He had on a broad-brimmed hat and light pants and long overcoat. He did not have on the same clothes on Monday, at the inquest. About 4 p. m., Sunday, Olsen said he would leave, and I did not see him afterwards that day.

I was quite familiar with Ivet. Mrs. Ivet was away, and he ate at the lower house with the men and slept at his residence on the hill. He left the lower house about dark, and started for his house. He forgot his dog, Flora, that generally slept at the upper house with him. The dog was locked in the cellar, and he forgot her. I was the first to find Ivet's body. He did not come to breakfast, and I had some business with him, so I went up to the house and found him dead with his head mashed, lying on the cellar door.

EGGS FROM MINNESOTA.
Is It a Wonder that We Are Poor?

The farmers of this section could have had an object lesson yesterday if they had noticed four cases of eggs in front of the Arcade Restaurant that had been shipped from Winona, Minn. for use in Reno. Still there are some papers and individuals who contend that Nevada is overdone now in the chicken line. Eggs from Minnesota, chickens from Kansas, turkeys from Dakota, ham from Chicago, lard from Cincinnati, bacon from Iowa, butter, vegetables and fruit from California may be seen any day on the streets of Reno, and it all might just as well be produced at home. Is it a wonder that we are poor and put in the time complaining about hard times when we are sending a million and a half of dollars out of the State annually for things that we could produce better than our neighbors?

DRY WEATHER.

The Outlook Bad for California but Good for Nevada.

The drought in California promises to be of advantage to this State in driving the stock cattle of that State into Nevada. A train load of eighteen cars of stock cattle was shipped to Iron Point day before yesterday, and from present appearances there will be more to follow. The bunch grass ranges of Eastern Nevada are not half stocked with cattle, and if California has to hunt feed outside of her own borders, that section is where she will be obliged to look. Everything now points to a dry winter on the other side, and if it comes it will mean good times for Nevada, for it will stock up our ranges and make a market for our beef.

A PORK-PACKING HOUSE.

The People of Honey Lake Endeavoring to Get One Established in Their midst.

Our energetic neighbors of Honey Lake Valley are working hard to get a pork-packing establishment going in that section. The GAZETTE would not be surprised if Honey Lake would be supplying this whole section of the country with ham, bacon and lard within a year from to-day. They are rustlers and deserving of it. The people of Reno may awake from their long sleep one of these days and try to do something to bring prosperity here, but it is not at all likely that they will do anything until some other section gets all the cream.

A Burned Steamer.

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 28.—A telephone from Bayou Sara gives the following particulars of the loss of the steamer T. P. Leathers yesterday. The fire was first discovered midships on the starboard side in a pile of sacks of seed surrounded by tiers of cotton bales. The boat was in mid stream underway. The fire had gotten such a hold upon the inflammable matter that to extinguish it was out of the question, and the Captain ordered the boat headed for the landing. The passengers and crew ran about the burning vessel crazed with terror.

The people gathered on the front deck, to be as near the shore as possible, and waited there as long as possible while the steamer was being driven in under full steam. As the boat neared the bank those who could swim began to jump into the river, and before the boat was within a hundred yards of the bank the water around her was black with struggling men. The officers stood to their posts, and did all they could to prevent the frightened passengers from jumping into the river. When the boat got within a few hundred feet of the bank even the foredeck became so hot it was impossible to stand there, and all on board were compelled to jump for their lives. The most of them were provided with life-preservers, and it is believed all of those who waited, until the last minute to jump got safely to shore. Lucy Hill, first chambermaid, jumped from the cabin deck and broke her leg. Those known to have been drowned are: Ike McNorris, steward; first cook, named Walker; Hamilton Jones and a rouster named Wright, all colored, and a white deck passenger name not known.

A Business Failure.

NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—A Philadelphia special states that B. K. Jamison & Co., bankers and brokers, have assigned.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 28.—The failure of B. K. Jamison & Co., bankers and brokers, was announced on the Stock Exchange this afternoon. The firm closed its doors and made an assignment to Samuel Justine Thompson. No statement of the liabilities or assets is yet made. The suspension resulted from the failure of the firm to realize upon its assets. It has been known for the last few days that the firm was in a shaky condition through the stringency of the money market, coupled with the failure of Barker Bros. & Co., but there were hopes that financial relief would come in time to avert a suspension. Wednesday at the close of business it was said this assistance would be available this morning, and, as business was resumed as usual, there was a belief that the trouble had been passed.

Parnell Continues Defiant.

By Cable and Associated Press.

LONDON, Nov. 28.—The manifesto which Parnell promised to issue to-day, dealing with all questions involved in the present political crisis, was made public this afternoon. It defiantly settles the fact that Parnell will not voluntarily retire from the leadership. The manifesto is of great length and sets forth why, in Parnell's opinion, it would be disastrous to the best interests of the party for him to withdraw. Parnell defies his political opponents and appeals to the people of Ireland to sustain him in the stand he has taken.

Parnell's supporters complain that after the Nationalist meeting on Wednesday that cable dispatches giving a misleading summary of the proceedings were sent privately to the Irish delegates in America. They assert that intrigues are on foot in the lobby of the House of Commons to draw away Dillon, O'Brien and other delegates from the support of Parnell.

The anti-Parnell members of the Nationalist party are more hopeful, and assert that private telegrams from Ireland show the priests and most of the people support them. They claim that if Dillon and O'Brien throw in their lot with Sexton and Healy's forces against Parnell, as they are expected to do, the tide against Parnell will be irresistible.

The Press Association says it is authorized to state that the announcement that the Irish Catholic hierarchy contemplate taking action against Parnell is premature, and that the statements in the announcement are entirely speculative.

At 2 o'clock this afternoon no reply had been received from Dillon and O'Brien, and the strained relations between the two sections of the Parnell party are becoming more marked. Parnell's supporters complain that his opponents are using unusual methods against him. They believe the American delegates have been misled, and have cabled, warning them not to accept the first version of the meeting as correct, and describing the proceedings from their own point of view.

The opponents of Parnell take it for granted that O'Connor, Sullivan and Harrington will follow the lead of O'Brien and Dillon and unite in an attempt to depose Parnell. They think Gill's support on this movement doubtful. They consider that Parnell has been totally misinformed regarding the views of the Irish people generally. They believe his manifesto will decrease his hold upon the country and further damage his position. His opponents are preparing a counter manifesto. Gladstone to-day held a conference with Earl Spencer and Arnold Morley.

Both the supporters and opponents of Parnell in the Irish Parliamentary party have agreed not to hold meetings or begin a popular agitation regarding the national leadership until after the meeting on Monday.

CINCINNATI, Nov. 28.—John Dillon has not yet arrived for a conference with O'Brien and others of the Irish Nationalist party in America. Upon a question as to the retirement of Parnell, O'Brien was closely secretive as to his own views, claiming that he ought not to say anything until after a conference is held. A large number of telegrams have been received, and there is a general opinion among those who have studied the situation that the decision of the conference will be against Parnell as leader. O'Brien's name has been mentioned as the possible leader, but it is said here that O'Brien himself would probably suggest some other man, such as Justin McCarthy. Dillon may not arrive until late this afternoon.

Indians Becoming Less Demoralized.

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—The War Department is in receipt of a number of dispatches from the seat of the Indian trouble, all indicating an improvement in the situation. General Brooke says that every hour lessens the strength of the disaffected. Little Wound has come into the Pine Ridge agency and his brother braves are following him.

Short Bull of the Rosebud agency, one of the most troublesome of the Sioux, and his followers to the number of 500 lodges, returned to Pine Ridge on Tuesday.

NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—A Philadelphia special from Dr. McGillicuddy, a former agent at Pine Ridge, telegraphs Herbert Welsh that the reports of the Pine Ridge situation is misleading, and that matters are now under control with a peaceable ending in view.

OMAHA, Nov. 28.—A special to the Bee from Pine Ridge says the beef issue passed off yesterday without excitement. One hundred and ninety steers were turned loose. Hawk Head and Big Horse, reliable Indians, have reached the agency with the news that their families had been stolen by a band of 200 Indians that had deserted from Rosebud a few hours before, and had rushed off to join 1,300 other Indian deserters who are now only fifteen miles northeast of the Pine Ridge agency. When Hawk Head and Big Horse discovered their families were missing they immediately set out in pursuit of the deserters.

The latter refused to give up the families of the policemen, who begged and entreated the deserters to give them back their wives and children, but only got cursed and threats of their lives. Before they got away from the band the members of the latter said: "Go tell the soldiers at Pine Ridge we are a part of 1,300 other Rosebud Indians now near Pine Ridge, and from now on we are going to kill every white person we meet, and if the soldiers come we are ready for them."

It is predicted by the Bee correspondent that within thirty-six hours the troops will be ordered to disarm or shoot down the marauders, and when the troops do start after them the end will be no Custer affair. A move will undoubtedly be made under cover of darkness, and by a forced march the attack and finish will both occur between the rising and setting of the moon. The scene of action will be some fifteen or twenty miles northeast of the agency.

The masquerade ball given by the Knights of Honor last evening was a fitting close to the Thanksgiving festivities. It was a well conducted affair, and reflects credit on the managers, for they succeeded in collecting a mirth-loving crowd of merrily people, who departed themselves in a mirthful manner, and entirely free from any objectionable feature.

The Pavilion was crowded with maskers and spectators, there being about 125 of the first, and at least 500 of the latter—so crowded, in fact, that the maskers were all compelled to stand during the entire evening; and a better satisfied crowd of spectators were never gathered in the Pavilion before.

Electricity and gas brought out most effectively the beauties of the glittering costumes, many of which were imported for the occasion and costly in character, while the impromptu, home-made affairs were ingenious and striking.

Promptly at 9 o'clock the grand march began, with Morris Ash, P. Russak and Nick Hammersmith as Directors, and the evolutions gave the spectators ample opportunity of viewing the pageant.

There were characters of all sorts represented, and there was a general mingling of mendicants and friars, fops, pages and sages, with Romeos and Julietts, kings, queens and princes, acrobats and clowns, politicians and beggars—in fact, everything imaginable, including the devil and Dr. Keck.

Hastings & Riegelhuth's Orchestra discoursed excellent music, and until 11:30 o'clock the dancing was continued without interruption, at which time the prizes were announced by Director Hammersmith, and the unmasking concluded that part of the program.

A partial list of the maskers is here given, and while there were many entitled to special mention, lack of space confines the GAZETTE simply to a list of the names and characters represented:

A PROSPEROUS SECTION.

The People of Honey Lake Valley Up and Doing On the Reclamation Question.

Very few people in this section have any conception of the work that has been done in Honey Lake Valley this summer towards a general reclamation of the arid lands in that vicinity. Fully $750,000 have been spent in the good work, and the coming summer will see 50,000 acres of dry land supplied with an abundance of water for all purposes. Our neighbors of the north have gone about the work of reclaiming a rich country with a vim that speaks well for their business sagacity. The Honey Lake Reservoir Company, composed of San Francisco capitalists, have 60 men and 140 head of horses at work to-day on reservoirs and ditches. Then there is a Sacramento company headed by Controller H. C. Dunne, E. M. Lockett, general foreman of the C. P. shops at Sacramento, and other men in large number $100,000 on the west side of Madeline Plains, about 60 miles north of Susanville. In nearly every conceivable place where there is a chance to store water a company has been organized and are at work building reservoirs.

It is the purpose of the several companies to get the land and water together and prepare the land for settlers, then invite immigration, and it is expected that fully 1,000 families will move into the northern country this coming year. Baron Von Schilling is operating in Long Valley and stands settling that section with German families. He is figuring on building a reservoir near J. M. Steinberger's ranch and catching the floods from Long Valley creek and a little creek that comes in from the mountains back of Steinberger's residence to fill it, and reclaim a large number of acres between that point and George Grenova's of now worthless land. The people of the north have managed to attract capital to their section and are deserving the full measure of success.

The N.-C.-O. has done much towards bringing this condition of things about, and are deserving of much credit. The company do not do much talking, but they are at work all the time, and during the next two years will revolutionize that whole northern country and inspire it with new life. If they bring 1,000 families into the country and put them on a good where they can make a good living where nothing would grow before, they are doing good work in building up a section of our sister commonwealth that should entitle them to a front rank in the march of progress.

HE WAS ASHAMED

To Ask Again, but His Frank Letter Got It for Him.

A few months ago one of the unfortunate inmates in the San Francisco Alms House was inspired by the sensational statements in the newspapers with the belief that Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla would help him. But without money, how to get it was the question. Finally he wrote to the Edwin W. Joy Co., appealing to their generosity, and it was not unheeded, the coveted preparation being sent by the next parcel delivery. Its effect is best told in a subsequent letter, from which we quote the following:

"I suppose you know me by this writing, and my circumstances and condition. Although improving, I ask of your generosity for another bottle of your Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla. Its laxative action is perfection itself. It has so thoroughly regulated my system that my chronic rheumatism, constipation, and headaches are all better. I feel ashamed to ask in this way, but what shall I do? I thought I might not need any more, but I am now so anxious to keep it up, but you see how it is."

It was sent, and he can get more if he needs it.

The circulation of the blood quickened and enriched—bears life and energy to every portion of the body; appetite returns; the hour of rest brings with it sound refreshment. This can be secured by taking Dr. J. H. McLean's Sarsaparilla.

BREVITIES.

If you have catarrh, you are in danger, as the disease is liable to become chronic and affect your general health or to develop into consumption. Hood's Sarsaparilla cures catarrh by purifying and enriching the blood, and building up the system. Give it a trial.

Testimony of a Painter.

T. H. Boskus, 105 Carlton avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y., writes:

"Allcock's Poreos Plasters are undoubtedly the best external remedy manufactured. I make this assertion to the public from my own personal experience of their wonderful virtues. Suffering from severe pains in my side and chest, contracted through a severe cold, I applied a couple of Allcock's Poreos Plasters upon going to bed at night. The result was, that in eight hours after applying them I could get up and walk about with very little pain or ache, when the night previous I could neither get up nor down without a hip, nor stoop to remove my shoes. I have since used them in my family for various ailments, and have never known them, to fail to give almost immediate relief."

MISCELLANEOUS.

Scrofula

In Its Worst Form—"White Swelling" Cured.

The remarkable effect of Hood's Sarsaparilla in the following case illustrates the power of this medicine over all blood diseases. "My son, 7 years old, had a white swelling come on his right leg below the knee, which contracted the muscles so that his leg was drawn up at right angles. Physicians lanced the swelling, which discharged freely, but did not help him materially. I considered him

A Confirmed Cripple.

I was about to take him to Cincinnati for an operation, expecting his leg would have to be taken off, and began giving him Hood's Sarsaparilla in order to get up his strength. The medicine woke up his appetite, and soon pieces of bone were discharged from the sore. We continued with Hood's Sarsaparilla, as it seemed to be doing him so much good, and the discharge from the sore decreased, the swelling went down, the leg straightened out, and in a few months he had perfect use of his leg. He is now apparently as well as ever." JOHN L. McMEYER, Notary Public, Ravenswood, W. Va.

THIN-SKINNED PEOPLE.

Men Who Think Themselves Caricatured by Authors and Actors.

Sothorn's Romantic Experience with the Count Joannes—A Frenchman Demands Satisfaction from Wilkie Collins—Other Curious Cases.

One of the most popular entertainers the world has seen, says Cassell's Saturday Journal, suffered greatly owing to the persistence with which people would see likenesses to themselves in the creations of his fancy. He chose the name of Sothorn, Jones or Robinson for one of his characters, some real cognomen wrote to him, complaining bitterly against his "satirizing a class," and then pointed out certain of their distinctive peculiarities which were, they alleged, burlesqued.

On the other hand, if he invented, as he thought, an uncommon name, somebody wanted to know how it was beset by him for ridicule. Why, asked the indignant writer, did not the entertainer choose some common name, such as Brown, Jones or Robinson, and not that borne by him? It was useless to point out to such people that the entertainer had never heard of their existence, each of them firmly believing that he was the original of a certain character.

Sothorn again: what a curious experience was his! The actor, when playing in America as Fitzlamont in "The Crushed Tragedian," one morning was called upon by an "interviewer," who told him that a Count Joannes, once an actor of the old school of which Sothorn made fun, had brought a suit to stop the performance of the piece on the ground that the comedian's make-up maligned him and beset his identity. Sothorn thought the affair was a joke, but when the reporter assured him it was serious, he said:

"If I have to go down to that court to show cause, by George! I pity the man that brings me. I won't let him rest while his worried life clings to him. He shall get telegrams and post-cards from this time on forever. Do about it? Why, I shall appear, of course."

Presently another reporter was announced. Sothorn again professed never to have heard of the suit brought against him.

"How would you fight it if the Count should challenge you?" asked the press man.

"I should prefer the date to be the 1st of April, and although I haven't fully considered the question, I think the weapons should be cannon. Yes, on reflection, I am sure I should insist upon those cannon that discharge 170 shots a minute. He should sit upon one of those engines and I upon another, and we should continue to discharge them until there should be no remnant of either Count or Sothorn."

All this, and much more, was published under startling head-lines on the following morning. Count Joannes, however, was terribly in earnest, though, of course, nothing came of his suit except a capital advertisement, of which full advantage was taken.

Of modern authors, Wilkie Collins decidedly had the most remarkable series of encounters with the class of people who identify themselves with purely imaginary personages. "A bourgeois of Paris," he himself has told us, "reading 'The Woman in White,' in a French translation, wrote to say that he had flung the book to the other end of the room on discovering that Fosco was an absolutely perfect likeness of himself. He naturally insisted on receiving satisfaction for this insult, leaving the choice of swords or pistols to me, as the challenged person. 'Information on which he could rely had assured him that I meditated a journey to Paris early in the ensuing week. A hostile meeting might, in such circumstances, be easily arranged.' Arrived in Paris, Wilkie Collins looked for his honorable opponent in vain.

Again Mr. Collins invented a character who was so careful about the quality of his food that he weighed it in little scales at table. Shortly after the publication of the novel a gentleman called upon the author.

"You have no right, sir, to caricature me!" exclaimed the caller to the astonished novelist. "I weigh my food in little scales, sir. Here they are, sir. I always carry them about with me by the advice of my physician, but is that any reason why I should be held up to ridicule, sir?"

And the gentleman refused to be pacified, though Mr. Collins protested that he had never before heard of such a habit. On another occasion a reader of "Armada" called upon him and upbraided him for putting his house into print. The description, it is said, was exact, although the popular writer had never seen the place.

The best way to arouse a drunken man, says a St. Louis policeman, is to pinch him under the arm. I found a fellow lying across the track at Tenth and Morgan streets late one night, and it seemed impossible to arouse him. I clubbed him over the soles of his feet and rolled and shook him, but he lay as limp as a rag. Just then an old gentleman came along and suggested that I pinch him under the arms. The effect was electrical. I had him awake at once. On another occasion Sergeant Pierce tried the same experiment on a sot at the fourth district station, who was delaying the black Maria. The man stood it for awhile and then suddenly opened his eyes and dealt the sergeant a blow that would have felled an ox. The treatment is a dead sure thing; catches them every time.

Bismarck's Superstition.

Prince Bismarck has a strong superstition concerning the number three, which he considers has always played an important part in his life. The arms of his family bear over the motto, "In Trinitate Robur," three trefol leaves and three oak leaves; all caricatures of him represent him with three hairs on his head, he has three children, Herbert, Wilhelm and Marie; he has three estates, Friedrichsruhe, Varzin and Schonhausen; he has fought in three wars and signed three treaties of peace; he arranged the meeting of the three Emperors and established the triple alliance. Finally he has under him three political parties, the conservatives, the national liberals and the ultramontanes, and he has served three German Emperors.

FACTS ABOUT HOSIERY.

Where the Stockings and Socks We Wear Come From.

The best hosiery goods are made in England and France. Fine cashmeres and wools are imported from England and fine thread silks from France. Germany produces a line of hosiery goods from the cheap to the medium. More of the articles of German manufacture are used in this country than any other kind. In the United States like threads, cottons, wools, a fair grade of cashmeres and some very good silks are produced for home consumption. In the suburbs of Philadelphia, and in that city, also, the making of domestic hosiery always has been and is to-day a very important industry. New Hampshire is another stocking-producing State, and the knit cotton goods of Massachusetts are known in every section of this country for their excellence. In Indiana a fine grade of men's woolen socks is made.

The manufacture of the silk goods is confined to the East, and as a matter of fact the domestic mills are scattered all over the country. Two years ago a hosiery plant was established in Rhode Island by a number of Englishmen who brought the machinery and the skilled workmen to this country. There is considerable demand for the American-made silk goods because they are much cheaper in price than the imported article. But the sale of silk goods is limited. This much may be said in favor of our stocking industry: our cotton and woolen goods are improving in quality every year and it will not be long before they are fully equal in every respect to the foreign hosiery. Cottons are largely worn now. There seems to be a decreasing demand for woolen goods. This trade is one of the most important branches of the dry-goods traffic, because everybody must cover his or her feet, even if unable to buy Alexander kids or sealskin saques. A cotton stocking cuts a very unimportant figure in a financial sense, albeit it is decidedly comfortable when the air is chilly. It may be an interesting item to know, says the Chicago Post, that one of the largest importers of German hosiery in the world is the leading dry-goods establishment of Chicago.

VERY DISHEARTENING.

What Your Sweetheart Will Eat in the Course of Her Existence.

A cynical doctor, withal a man of wonderful resources and a quick mind, lives on one of the avenues on the South side, says the Chicago Tribune. He was in his study a few nights ago when a young man came in and began questioning him about his (the young man's) propriety of marrying. The young man foolishly raved over his sweetheart and called her angelic and so on. He was afraid that she was too fragile for this world. The old doctor grunted. "Fragile, eh?" he asked. "How fragile? Ever test her fragility? Let me give you some figures about her and woman-kind in general, showing how fragile they are. Let us suppose that this piece of perfection is in moderately good health. She will live, to be sure, sixty years old. Women don't like to die any more than men do—not as much—for women never grow old, you know. Listen to me: She will eat one pound of beef, mutton, or some other flesh every day. That's 365 pounds of meat in a year. In sixty years it's 21,900 pounds. How's that for fragile? "She will eat as much bread and as much vegetables per diem, and there you have in sixty years 43,800 pounds of bread and meat. If she is not too angelic she will drink daily no less than two quarts of coffee, tea or water. And by the time she is ready to have a monument she will have consumed 175 hog-heads of liquids. Fragile? Now, young man, these figures do not include the forty or fifty lambs she will worry down with mint sauce. It does not take into consideration the 2,000 spring chickens, the 500 pounds of butter, the 50,000 eggs and the four hogheads of sugar she will consume in sixty years. It doesn't take into consideration her ice-cream, her oysters, her clams and such. All this means about 45 tons, or as much as you could stack in half of Sibley's warehouse. Fragile? Think of your affinity in connection with these figures and then rave over her being fragile. Young man, you are a fool! Boof!"

MAY BE WASHED OUT.

Dyspeptics to Have a Fresh Start if a Meal Be Not Digested.

During the past several years physicians have tried, with gratifying success, a novel treatment for dyspepsia and cancer of the stomach by washing out the stomach. The process is very simple and not dangerous. A long, flexible pipe is passed down the throat until one end is in the stomach. The upper end has a funnel attached, into which hot water is poured until the stomach is filled. The weight of the water in the pipe and funnel gives a hydraulic pressure sufficient to slightly distend the stomach. The pipe has an aperture big enough to hold a lead pencil. After the stomach has been filled the funnel end of the pipe is turned down until it is lower than the bottom of the stomach, and the stomach is emptied as a barrel of any fluid is emptied through a siphon.

The process may be repeated several times. The result is that the undigested food and mucus are washed out and the hot water closes the blood vessels, and reduces inflammation. The relief is immediate. The dyspeptic may have his stomach washed out before a meal so that he can take a fresh start. After the lapse of a sufficient time for ordinary digestion, the stomach may be washed out again.

The process, says the New York Sun, has been in use at the New York Hospital for some time. The stomach pump has been mainly used in cases of poisoning, and is considered to be the first-aid before administering antidotes, but they are so seldom used that few physicians have them. Recently in a case of poisoning three prominent physicians were applied to for the use of a stomach pump, and neither of them had one, and the patient had to be taken to the hospital.

A Real Robinson Crusoe.

The island of Tristan in the South Atlantic is inhabited by eighty people—the patriarch of the party, Peter Green, a veritable Robinson Crusoe, having been sent there for fifty-two years. He has just sent a letter complaining that some of the grown-up children show a desire to leave their lovely island home.

"Oh, girl with the jeweled fingers. Oh, girl with the laces rare!"

Under such circumstances you would willingly give all your jewels and all your laces to regain lost health. This you can do if you will but resort to the use of that great restorative known as Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. Thousands of grateful women bless the day it was made known to them.
